Tenn-Tom Waterway holds new potential for Hancock

The Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway system may bring a multiplicity of benefits to Hancock County.

Governor Cliff Finch in "State of the State" message delivered to joint session of legislators on Jan. 22 in Jackson, again brought the waterway question before the public.

Speaking of his Mississippi Internal Development Assistance Service (MDAS), Finch said in part, "Every effort will be made to hurry development of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway project..."

The governor said the project has the greatest economic potential of any ever undertaken in Mississippi.

Backing up this theme, Finch said his administration would also concentrate on port development, and included those ports at Gulfport and Hancock County (Port Bienville).

On the "Tenn-Tom" project, Wilson Webre, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission director, said he could see several advantages to the area, once it becomes operational.

"I am inclined to believe the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway System would be extremely beneficial to the entire Gulf Coast area," Webre said this week.

The port director was particularly hopeful that increased Infracoastal Canal traffic generated by the new waterway would result in the maintenance of that route at a greater depth than at present.

The waterway itself is designed to link the Warrior-Tombigbee system to the Tennessee River through a distance of 253 miles.

When completed, the waterway will have five locks and dams, and provide a nine-foot slack water channel. It will bring the sea, and foreign markets, as much as 700 miles closer to America's heartland. But of most importance to Hancock County, its utilization will provide a slack water and downstream system for tugs and tows moving north.

This feature means a possible development of an anti-clockwise freight movement from the western Gulf Coast to the north via the new system, with return being via the Mississippi River, a downstream run.

Too, with the advent of a new elevator at Port Bienville, commercial possibilities exist to the supply of feed grains and fertilizer to the 42 feed-grain-deficit counties adjacent to the Waterway route in West Alabama and East Mississippi.

Other main cargo movements will probably include coal, minerals, and petro-chemicals.

"The Corps of Engineers has been conducting an almost continuing Hurricane Protection study for the Mississippi Gulf Coast since Hurricane Betsy," Webre said.

"It may well be that increased canal traffic generated by such a waterway will induce the Corps to dredge the canal to a standard 12 foot, or greater depth, and reconsider the dredging and maintenance of the Cat Island, deep water channel to Port Bienville."

With the emphasis on environmental control, the disposal of spoils from such dredging has frequently been raised in objection.

"Now, perhaps," Webre said, "we can utilize these spoils in the construction and maintenance of an offshore protection berm."

School board wants $85,000

By CAROLE LANGE

The Hancock County Board of Education will appear before the Board of Supervisors next week seeking approval to borrow $85,000 for repairs and other expenses in the school district.

Harlin Hill, assistant superintendent of education, said one mill would be sufficient to cover payments on the short term loan. The payments will be approximately $17,000 plus six percent interest over a five-year period.

Monvel Cuevas, board president, said the money will be used to pay for four portable classrooms at Hancock North Central; repairs to sewer treatment plants at Charles B. Murphy and Gulfview Elementary Schools; roof repairs, desks, and plumbing work at all three schools; and a dishwasher at Hancock North Central.

The board currently owes $75,000 on a 1973 note with three $25,000 payments due this year.

Hill said the board does not plan to ask the supervisors to consolidate the new loan with the previous note due to a "technicality on the millage." A consolidation would require two mills.

Supervisors reveal HUD approval

Hancock supervisors announced this week that a $185,000 application for Community Development Block Grant funds has been approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Frank Dunaway with Southern Engineering Co. of Picayune, consultants on the project, said the program calls for the construction of three recreational facilities and three sanitary landfills throughout the county and a senior citizens center at Kiln.

He said the recreational facilities will include a lighted baseball park at Kiln and two playgrounds, one in Waveland near Highway 90 and the second in Pearlington.

According to Dunaway, the sanitary landfills will be located in the northern, central, and southern areas of the county but definite sites have not been chosen.

Activities of the program will begin after environmental review requirements by HUD and appropriate state agencies are completed and the supervisors file a request for release of the funds.

This is the board's second attempt to secure a loan for repairs. The first attempt to borrow $125,000 was taken under advisement by the supervisors in November.

The board went into executive session for an hour and five minutes during Monday's meeting to discuss salaries and the transfer of a secretary according to Terrell Randolph, superintendent.

When the board reconvened, no mention was made of the closed door discussion and Oris Ladner reopened the meeting with a motion to fire George Holladay, Charles B. Murphy maintenance man, effective immediately.

The motion was seconded by Johnny Banks and following brief discussion during which Tommy Shaw said he didn't believe in firing a man without giving him two weeks notice, a roll call vote was taken.

The motion failed due to an abstention from Shaw and nay votes from Several mothers of Gulfview students were at the meeting awaiting a "voluntary apology" from Ladner concerning remarks he made at an earlier meeting about teachers at the elementary school.

At the first meeting he attended since his election to the board a year ago, Ladner said he saw "teacher's aides doing the teaching" while teachers at Gulfview "stood in the cafeteria smoking cigarettes and drinking coffee."

The mothers took offense to the statement and Mrs. Juanita L. Shiyu, group spokesman, said Ladner's remarks were "uncalled for and untrue."

Following the meeting, Mrs. Shiyu said Ladner would be asked in writing for an "oral apology" at next week's meeting Feb. 3.

Clap your hands! Stomp your feet! Practice up on your guitar strings and hog-calling. And ladies now's the time to freshen up your bonnets and fancy aprons. The wagon train is rolling on the trail, and it's due to hit the Mississippi-Louisiana State Line on I-10 on Feb. 25. Sure you're supposed to be there - part of the welcoming committee.

And that ain't all. Said they're bringing a Pennsylvania State presentation. Translated into proper Deep South plain English that means they probably have some fiddlers, singers and dancers to put on about a 40 minute show. That's good. You will relish it. Expansion plans announced for Waveland Shopping Center

As soon as the city of Waveland gives its approval, construction is expected to begin on a 24-store addition to Our Shopping Center in Waveland, according to Delmar Wilcox, developer.

Wilcox said the expansion "will run in the neighborhood of $100,000" and create a "complete shopping center" for Hancock County consumers.

The new stores, which will line both sides of an 800 foot long boulevard, will be located behind the shopping center's 20 existing stores. Wilcox said a 150 foot wide area will separate the two sections to allow expansions of the major stores.

He said access to the expansion can be made from Waveland Ave. or Auderhys Blvd., which will be extended 100 feet. The as yet unnamed connecting boulevard will offer parallel parking, and two parking bays will be constructed on the Waveland Ave. side of the expansion for theatre-goers.

Wilcox said the addition will have a "unified architectural theme" which James Chamche, project architect and engineer, is designing.

Construction of the stores will be on an "as-needed basis," according to the developer.

NAS-4 seminar

Utilizing technology in everyday life concerns visiting scientists

Partly technology, or the transfer and application of scientific information gleaned from the various undertakings and experiments now underway at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) and other like locations, was the topic of a three-day seminar this week at Dhammaburial.

The seminar was sponsored jointly by the Louisiana Technology Transfer Office, the National Science Foundation, the North Carolina Science and Technology Research Center, and NSTL-NASA.

Chris F. Purdy, a deputy administrator with NASA's Technology Utilization Department in Washington, D.C., told the group that the subject of technology utilization would occupy one hour of a two- and one-half hour meeting of NASA programs and funding, scheduled that day before the Congressional Appropriations Committee in Washington.

NASA's new Commercial Technology Directorate program was designed to take the technology required by NASA and other scientific agencies engaged in "mainline" programs and pass it on to the teams of private business and industry, including state and local governments.

W. P. Phillips, Chairman of the 1976 Pastel Girls, Maryland, is attending the Southern Area Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation and Children and Youth Conference sponsored by The American Legion and The American Legion Auxiliary, taking place in the Sheraton Little Rock Inn, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Dr. R. Greenwood of NASA's Langley Space Center spoke on Environmental Hardware. He was presented by Dr. W. North, of NASA-NSTL, who expanded on his water hyacinth program. Mr. Greenwood works on the field that already benefited the City of Bay St. Louis and its industrial park, and is now being recognized as a possible energy source breakthrough due to the hyacinth's gas producing abilities when chemically treated and processed.

Further, Mr. Greenwood outlined a program whereby the water plant can be utilized in the production of high protein cattle feed.

Two other areas of energy source solar and geothermal were discussed by Dr. T. E. Kirby of NASA's Langley Space Center and Bay Village, Ohio, respectively. Dr. Sam Pote, NASA-Johnson Space Flight Center, talked on Emergency Medical Systems concerning himself in the man with space program spin-off items as applied to modern medicine.

Don't be afraid to wash woolen blankets

Most blankets can be washed in automatic washers. As with everything you wash, check the label first. Then follow manufacturer's instructions if you kept them. If you did not, use this following process for wool, synthetic or electric blankets.

You can wash a blanket in either a conventional washer or an automatic washer provided the control dial can be manually operated to control time of cycle, and the blanket can be put into washer after it has been filled.

Wash one blanket at a time. Measure the blanket before laundering, so you can block it back to its original size.

To wash wool blankets, fill the washer to high level with luke warm or cold water. Add a low-sudsing detergent and agitate the wash water for a short time to dissolve the detergent and then stop agitation. Pretreat soiled binding and spots with liquid detergent.

Submerge blanket in the detergent solution and let it soak 15 to 20 minutes. Turn over once by hand. Agitate for one minute at slowest speed available. Remember, agitation for more than two minutes will result in excessive shrinkage. Drain and follow with a fast spin. Give it a final rinse.

To launder synthetic blankets, follow the steps under washing a wool blanket. Agitate the blanket for two to three minutes at the slowest speed after the first soaking.

Synthetic blankets can be dried on the regular or normal fabric setting. When dry, remove and block to original size.

Electric blankets need special care and handling because of wires and insulation. Follow laundering instructions that were attached to the blanket.

Protect the plug by folding it into a corner and pinning it.

Metric system would give trade common denominator

"International trade may be motivated in years ahead as a result of Congressional approval of the Metric Conversion Act," says Madelyn R. Williams, acting executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

"More and more overseas customers are resisting U.S. products from industries that package food and other products designed and marketed in the unfamiliar English system of weights and measures," Mrs. Williams said.

Over 90 percent of the world's population uses the metric system, according to latest figures, Mrs. Williams said.

"World trade experts have said that if this nation adopted the system it would ease U.S. trade barriers and benefit the country," she noted.

The Metric Conversion Act was signed by the President on Dec. 23, 1975. The legislation provides for the President to appoint a 17-member board to coordinate voluntary changeover and devise public education programs. Among the conversions will be yards, gallons and ounces becoming meters, liters and grams, in units of 10's, 100's and 1000's.

Before passage of the legislation, the United States was the only major nation which had not made a national commitment to the metric system. However, the system has been legal here since 1866. Some 11 percent of American manufacturers employ metric measurement to some degree, and its use has increased in recent years through firms dealing in overseas trade.

"Some of our best customers for agricultural products — Japan, Great Britain and British commonwealth nations — made the shift to metrics in recent years," Mrs. Williams continued.

By adopting the same system for domestic measurement as is used for foreign measurement, costs to producers and consumers will probably be reduced.

In making new engineering drawings, for example, manufacturers of large farm machinery can discontinue use of the double effort involving metrics for overseas customers and English measure for domestic customers. This will save time and costs in terms of man-hours, productivity and efficiency. Standardization also will cut costs connected with reducing the number of sizes and varieties of thousands of products.

King Shadoin is vice president of the investment banking firm of Hibbard, O'Connor & Weeks, Inc., of Houston and New York. Corporate headquarters is in Houston, which is now Shadoin's home.

He is a native of Bay St. Louis and maintains a residence in Ocean Springs, often commuting between Houston and his Gulf Coast home.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Shadoin, Sr., live in Bay St. Louis. Mr. Shadoin was Postmaster, and is now retired. Mrs. Shadoin is retired manager of Hancock Insurance Agency.

Shadoin's wife, the former Terry Gautier, is from Biloxi, and is a member of Bonne Vivantes. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Horace Gautier, of Biloxi.

The Shadoins have three girls, Deborah, 14; Katherine, 11; and Traci, 6.

Many taxpayers not claiming $30 credit

JACKSON - The Internal Revenue Service Center in Atlanta has processed more than 70,000 early returns filed by taxpayers in the Southeast Region. A majority of those filing used Form 1040A, Short Form.

A provision in the 1975 Tax Reduction Act allows a $30 tax credit for each individual taxpayer plus dependents claimed on the tax return. During the processing of the early returns, it was noted that 10 percent of the returns filed are not claiming the $30 credit.

Taxpayers are urged to claim the credit on Line 16b of the Form 1040 and on Line 13b of the Form 1040A. No action is necessary for those persons who have already filed and did not claim the $30 credit; the return is being corrected in the Atlanta Service Center, and the $30 credit will be included in any refund due the taxpayer, or any taxes will be reduced by the $30 credit.

However, the hand processing of the return will delay any refund due.

Grazing management important to prevent nitrate poisoning

There are cattle being lost this grazing season from a malady termed "Nitrate Poisoning." Often those losses can be prevented or drastically reduced with proper management of nitrogen fertilization along with grazing management when poor growing conditions occur according to John W. Smith, County Agent.

Nitrogen is essential for the growth of winter grazing areas, and it is needed in relatively large amounts as compared to other nutrients. Nitrogen is a mobile element both in the plant and soil and it is constantly undergoing chemical change. In certain forms it is highly toxic to livestock.

"Nitrate Poisoning" is the general term used to describe an animal illness resulting from: 1) nitrite formation, 2) ammonia toxicity, and 3) nitrate induced vitamin A deficiency.

Nitrates as such are not toxic to livestock and all forages contain some nitrates. When nitrates are ingested by ruminants certain they are broken down to ammonia and then converted by bacteria to protein. One of the intermediate products is nitrite and excessive nitrate in forages produces excessive nitrite conversion. Nitrite absorbed into the blood stream reduces the blood's oxygen carrying capacity.

The lack of oxygen causes staggering and muscular tremors, rapid and labored breathing and blue coloration. The severity of the problem from applied nitrogen is reduced if the soil contains adequate amounts of calcium, magnesium, sodium, phosphorus and potash or if the animal diet is adequately fortified with these elements. However, under certain environmental conditions poisoning can occur regardless of precautions taken. These conditions are of much shorter duration, one to several hours, where plant nutrition is adequate. Therefore, under most conditions the critical period has passed before symptoms appear and cattle can be removed from the pasture. The most practical prevention is by the feeding of supplemental grain and/or hay during periods of stress or the of the mucus membranes. Animals actually die from asphyxiation.

Acutely affected animals should be handled very easily and treated with 2 percent methylene blue solution.

To deal with this problem, the conditions that cause the occurrence of toxic concentrations must be understood. Then when these conditions occur quick action can be taken. Nitrate poisoning is more likely to occur after periods of plant stress such as cloudy, cold weather when the soil is wet.

Excessive rates of nitrogen fertilizer (over 60-70 lbs. actual N in one application) may increase the danger of nitrate poisoning.

Trinity Episcopal Church

Women of the St. Monica Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church will show visitors a bit of the history of their church during the annual St. Valentine's Tea this year. The present structure, consecrated in 1971, was rebuilt after Hurricane Camille following the Gothic style of the original structure built in 1850.

Guild sets plans

Valentine Tea has feminine touch

By JOE PILET

Beautiful activists, all members of the St. Monica Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian, are putting a final feminine touch on elaborate plans for an exceptional social event - the Valentine Tea.

Odgen Lafaye of Pass Christian, a popular and well known organist, will play the Trinity Church organ in his recital scheduled from 3:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. according to Mrs. John R. Frith, overall chairman for the event.

A tour of the church will also be featured with special emphasis given to both stained glass windows and to the beautifully designed and executed needle point community kneelers and sedilia.

There is a lovely story connected with these cushions. It seems that Mary Lee Baker Keenan of New Orleans visiting Trinity Church after Hurricane Camille, was shown the plans and drawings for the "reincarnated" church which hoped to duplicate the destroyed structure. She felt strongly that she and her friends would like to make a lasting and meaningful contribution. The contribution was to be needlework, finely done by experts in their field and after research for authentic and meaningful spiritual connotation in design.

Once permission was granted, the research began with drawings of Miss Christine Northrop's and encompassed art of wildflowers of the area, and the beautiful tapestry designs from St. Martin D'Angers in France, showing Saint Maurillus as a gardener with his flowers.

Needlepoint, Inc. of New Orleans then painted the designs for the communion cushions. Jean duPont Blair designed and painted the cushions for the sedilia after full research in church symbolism.

For those unfamiliar with the term "sedilia", it refers to a seat or group of seats on the South area of the church to be occupied by the clergy when not officiating.

A group of New Orleans ladies all of whom knew and loved the old church began to work. A single exception in the group was Mrs. Ducrose Stouse of Pass Christian. All of the others were non-members of Trinity in Pass Christian.

Their work was ready and placed on Easter Sunday, 1975 with the church rector, the Reverend H. McDonald Morse Jr., and past-rector, the Reverend Durrie Harding, dedicating the cushions.

Hostesses named to assist in the church tour include Mrs. G. Watson Prindiville, church historian; Mrs. Robert Bird of the church prayer group; and Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet, author and editor of the Church Yearbook published in 1973.

Those who donated their time and talent included: Mmes. George Andry, Maurice W. Bayon, Jean duPont Blair, Walter Cook Keenan, Jr., Louis Le Bourgeois, Monroe Lyons, Frank Mathew, Richard C. Plater, Robert Henry Sarpy, Frank Strachan, Ducrose Stouse and Robert M. Swords.

Souvenir copies of this book will be available to tea guests free of charge as long as the supply lasts.

Cyclathon participants

Lee Spence, resident of Pass Christian and member of the Board of Trustees of Coast Episcopal School, prepared to mount his charge at the start of the school's recent Cyclathon. Holly Vegas was first to finish the 10 mile course. Riders were sponsored by area merchants and patrons with benefits going to the school.

Coast bicyclists race for school

Coast Episcopal High School junior Holly Vegas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vegas of Bay St. Louis, outraced 49 other competitors Saturday in the first Coast Episcopal Cyclathon in Pass Christian.

Miss Vegas and Brad Crull, also a junior at Coast, placed first and second respectively over the 10-mile benefit course. Each received new 10-speed bicycles donated by school supporters.

Participants in the Cyclathon were sponsored by a list of businesses and friends who pledged varying donations for each mile completed by the riders. All proceeds went to Coast Episcopal High School and Christ Episcopal Day School.

In the "over 20" class, Walter Todd of Pass Christian led the field of parents and grandparents, faculty members and civic leaders riding bicycles.

Youngest rider to complete the course was 5-year-old Henry Furr of Ocean Springs, a kindergarten student.

Families and well-wishers munched popcorn and hot dogs at flag draped booths near the Pass Christian City Hall while waiting the return of participants.

Cyclathon chairman, Bebe Whitlock, said school officials plan to make the Cyclathon a yearly affair.

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Prevou, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Prevou Sr., Bay St. Louis, and Richard L. Rotundo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Rotundo Sr., Ocean Springs, Miss., were married Saturday morning, Jan. 17, in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. Variegated pink carnations and gladiolas decorated the altar.

Mrs. John McKenna, organist, accompanied Nicholas Parker who sang "Wedding Song" and "Follow Me" and S.J. Marango who sang "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white quince floor length empire style gown fastened with a beaded lace bodice long sleeves and high neckline. She wore a floor length lace veil embroidered in seal palms and carried a bouquet of miniature white roses, bay's breath and holly.

Miss Linda Parker, maid of honor and Mrs. Larrie Kelly, Pensacola, Fla., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Henry J. Prevou Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, Bay St. Louis, and Miss Cindy Parker, Ocean Springs, cousin of the groom.

They wore pink crepe knit empire style gowns fastened with full pink chiffon sleeves and headpieces of baby's breath and gladiolas.

Decorations were pink carnations, baby's breath and holly.

Pirates sink

Tiger game 77-60

The Pass High School Pirates outscored the Bay High Tigers in the first three periods of play Tuesday night at the Pass gym to avenge an earlier season loss and record a 77-60 basketball victory.

Robin Malley and Bruce Cuevas were the high point men for the Pirates, now 19-6 for the season. Malley collected 25 points while Cuevas followed with 24 and 15 rebounds. Jack Ulrich contributed 17 points to the Pirate cause.

For Bay High, Lewis Smith tallied 16 points for the unusually cold shooting Tigers. Guard Allison Farve added 12.

The loss brought the Tigers' record to 16-5.

In an earlier match the Tigerettes orchestrated a 51-28 win over Pass High girls. The Tigers Cindy Stieffel led the Tigerette's cause with 13 points.

Both the boys and girls teams of Pass will resume play tonight in opening round action of the Pascagoula River Conference tournament at East Central High School.

The Pass High girls will meet St. Martin at 7 p.m.

Gulfview hosts round robin

Gulfview School, Lakeshore, will host its round-robin basketball tournament for fifth and sixth grade teams Feb. 3-5.

Schools participating in the three-day event are Waveland Elementary, Hancock North Central Elementary, and North Bay Elementary.

All games will commence at 4 p.m. each day with subsequent games starting one hour apart at 5, 6, and 7 p.m.

Compreta appointed

Hancock ACS chairman

Rep. J.P. Compreta, of 408 Old Spanish Trail, has been named chairman of the Hancock County unit of the American Cancer Society's (ACS) 1976 educational and fund raising crusade which begins April 1.

The appointment was announced by Miss Margo Burgo, executive director of the Coast district office of ACS.

The 1976 crusade is under the national chairmanship of television comedian Flip Wilson.

Compreta has set the goal for this year's crusade at $3,000. "We shall be calling on friends and neighbors with lifesaving messages and we urge that they give as much as possible to advance the fight against cancer," he said.

Compreta said one of the goals of this year's campaign is "to see that every adult woman has a Pap test to help eliminate death from cervical cancer."

"Our action programs which motivate people to discuss facts about cancer and commit them to regular health checkups are carried into all communities of the nation by more than 2.3 million volunteers," he said.

He continued: "The volunteers in this great fight against a common enemy come from all walks of life. The people-to-people contact alerts neighbors, relatives and friends to cancer's warning signals and helps raise fighting funds."

Compreta said persons wishing to work as ACS crusade volunteers should contact the Hancock County unit located at 228 DuBois Ave., Bay St. Louis, or telephone 46-3000, ext. 1212, 46-7813, or 46-7822.

Elder David Haight appointed to Mormon council

Elder David B. Haight has been appointed a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The appointment to fill the vacancy created Dec. 2, 1975, by the death of Elder Hugh B. Brown was announced by the First Presidency of the Church.

The Council of the Twelve Apostles, under the guidance of the First Presidency, directs the affairs of the Mormon Church throughout the world.

Elder Haight had served as an assistant to the Council of the Twelve, with worldwide responsibilities since April 6, 1970.

Branch President Thomas Sones of the Waveland Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints said "The office of apostle has been on the earth since 1830 when The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was organized. Apostles today have many of the same responsibilities as their forefathers in Christ's ancient church."

A noted civic and business leader in California before assuming fulltime church responsibilities, Elder Haight was mayor of Palo Alto, director of the Chamber of Commerce and Downtown Merchants Association, president of Stanford-Palo Alto Hospital and a governor of the San Francisco Bay Area

Council of Mayors.

In recognition of his services he was awarded the Sertoma International "Service to Mankind" award in Palo Alto in 1963.

Elder Haight is managing director of the Church's Melchizedek Priesthood Department, assisted by Elder James A. Cullimore and Elder Marion D. Hanks.

In addition, Elder Haight is area supervisor for the Central South Area of the United States, including the Arkansas Little Rock, Kentucky Louisville, Louisiana Baton Rouge, Missouri Independence, and Tennessee Nashville missions.

Vo-Tech center offers welding class

Students in the program will be taught the basic fundamentals in theory and ship orientation in the following areas: shop safety, the use of hand tools, identification of metals, selection of electrodes and operation and use of the electric arc welding machines, namely the DC rectifier, AC-DC rectifier, micro wire and tungsten inert gases.

The course will be 14 weeks in duration and will meet each Monday and Wednesday night. Cost is $40.

LIS LAGARDE

World Tennis ranks OLA net star

Local tennis standout Lis Lagarde is ranked 32nd among players comprising the Southern Region by World Tennis magazine in its February issue.

The Southern region takes in the nine states of Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Miss Lagarde, 13, a sophomore at Our Lady's Academy in Bay St. Louis is current girls District 6-A champ and recently placed first in 16-year-olds and under.

Girl's basketball camp scheduled

The Second Annual Girl's Basketball Camp and Coaching Seminar will be held for junior high school students June 20-25 and for senior high school students June 27-July 2 at the University of Southern Mississippi, according to M.C. Johnson, chairman, department of athletic administration and coaching.

For full-time campers, the fee is $70 per participant or $83 per participant with team play at the Gulf Hills Racquet Tournament in Ocean Springs, Miss.

She is in her first year of competition in the 16-year-old bracket or Junior Tournament Tennis and was tentatively ranked third among 14-year-olds in Mississippi.

Miss Lagarde is coached by Brothers Paul Mulligan, Pascal Ackerman and Canisius Schell of St. Stanislaus College.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lagarde of 227 St. Charles Street, Bay St. Louis.

Two meet records set at Oak Downs

(Special to The Echo)
PEARL RIVER, La. - Two meet records were broken here Sunday at Oak Downs.

Claude Polk's Trouble No More recorded a time of 38.595 seconds in winning the three-furlong fifth race over H & H Special, and Harold Bandy's Alberta Go Get'em posted a swift time of 1:04.14 in capturing the five-furlong sixth over Dee Dee's Boy.

Previous marks were 38.70 for three furlongs and 1:05.62 for five furlongs.

Hancock County horses had some bad luck as one was caught at the wire after leading the entire race and another finished first but was disqualified for fouling.

Miss Coco Hill, owned and trained by James Watson of Bay St. Louis, led a three-horse field in the 350-yard eighth race for most of the way, but La Scorpion closed fast and nipped Miss Coco Hill at the finish line.

La Scorpion was clocked in 18.86 seconds while Miss Coco Hill was timed in 18.85.

Bam Bars, owned by Lesil Dedeaux and trained by Larry Favre, both of Hancock County, ran first in the 440-yard 10th race but judges disqualified Bam Bars for a foul and named Sister Cee Lave as the winner.

Sunday's results:

1) 3 furlongs, Doubles, 38.97 seconds, Jim Schoultz, owner and trainer; Reynold Birne, jockey; Perry Como, 39.62. Up Chip, 39.73. Jay's Gold, fourth.
2) 6-1/2 furlongs, Behind Bars, no time, Larry Lloyd, owner and trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Missy, second.

Rebs face Kentucky

Ole Miss after first SEC win

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - The next lesson on the agenda for Coach Robert "Cob" Jarvis' Ole Miss basketball team, and it is an extremely young outfit, is a last-minute drill.

Still without a victory in an 0-7 Southeastern Conference season, the Rebels dropped decisions to ninth-ranked Tennessee and talented Georgia here Saturday and Monday by a total of five points.

And the winning margins in both exchanges came at the wire, inside the last minute of play.

Ole Miss and the Vols were all even at 53-53 with 17 seconds left when Tennessee's 6-6 senior center, Doug Ashworth, took a pass from Bernard King and dropped in a snowbird to settle that issue.

Ernie Grunfeld hit the front end of a one-and-one 13 seconds later to seal the triumph, 56-53.

Since that was Tennessee's first basketball win here since 1972, the title-contending Vols were justifiably happy.

In Monday night's battle, the Rebels had gone to a full-court press with nearly 15 minutes left and Georgia winning by 14 at 50-36. They finally caught up with the Bulldogs and went out front at 68-67, then 70-69 when Harvey Murray and Gene Harris scored.

But a pair of Georgia points on free throws and a final basket on a goal tending call by guard Tony Flanagan overshadowed Murray's final miss.

Both Kentucky and Vandy were involved in overtime decisions on the road Monday night.

Jarvis' team faces Kentucky in Lexington Saturday night and Vanderbilt in Nashville Monday.
